England and the United States.

Notwithstanding the recent warlike menaces of the London Times, and the rumors of the impending differences between our Minister at the Court of St. James and the British government, we have no idea that there is any real cause for apprehension of a war between these two countries. The very fact, announced by the last arrival, that these rumors had excited the utmost alarm in the commercial and manufacturing districts, is one of the best evidences of England's dependence upon the United States, and of the impossibility of the British government entering upon a war with this country. A war with the United States would prove the ruin of the commercial and manufacturing interests of Great Britain—and no powerful British interest can become extinct without the well-being of the Empire, if not its destruction, depending in fact vitally upon it. No British Ministry will dare to engage in a war so threatening, unless upon the last degree of provocation and when the National honor can in no other way be preserved.

The main difficulty which imperils the peace of the two countries is now stated to be, what we have before mentioned, the Central American or Mosquito Protectorate question—and we do not perceive how the interests or honor of England are so deeply implicated in the maintenance of this protectorate, as to induce her statesmen to risk the commercial ruin of England herself in a war with the United States. In fact it is but abandoning the question in dispute as of having a foot-hold in Central America—which is far from being anything unbearable to Great Britain—and we could comport exactly with what she honorably agreed to do in the Clayton-Bulwer Treaty when she saw understandings to negotiate. Nor is it of any vital consequence to England, to prevent the United States from consolidating or annexing portions of Central America—except so far as it might affect her communications with Asia—in and other portions of the Pacific, which could all be secured by honorable treaty. It would in fact be an advantage to the manufactures and commerce of England, to have those territories settled, and their resources developed by no enterprising a people as the Americans—as the work would never be done by Englishmen, if that nation had complete possession there. We say it would be thus an absolute advantage to England, for us to possess the whole of Central America—although we desire from benevolent motives that it should be subject to or acquire that possession. So far as the question under consideration goes, however, any fears which the British cabinet may have in such a result, ought not to be the cause of war with the United States, as it would not be so considered by the great ruling business interests of England.

The English people, too, have a much better appreciation of the real strength of the United States, and of our unlimited resources for war, than they have heretofore had—and would not permit their government to push any matter of question to a fatal issue. Any appreciation was lacking previously was supplied in a forcible manner by the Lord Mayor's address in a recently delivered speech in England on the subject of the Russian war and its results by the latest dates.

If you were to challenge, this is the formidable enemy you have to encounter. Behind the spirit of resistance to oppression of millions of freemen, they have unlimited resources at command, and they have a country peculiarly adapted to the defence of its rights. Its extent is almost boundless, and its population is rapidly increasing. Its agricultural resources are inexhaustible. Its manufactures are already very great, and are increasing with unexampled rapidity. Its commerce is spread over the whole world, and is carried on by a hardy and enterprising race of seamen. Its navy is already powerful, and is capable of indefinite increase. Its people are animated by a spirit of independence, and are inured to habits of self-government. Their political institutions are popular in the extreme. Their social habits are simple and manly. Their intelligence is universally diffused. Their religious feelings are deeply rooted. Their attachment to their country is unbounded. Their means of internal communication are unrivalled. Their military spirit is excited by the recollection of their struggle for independence, and by the present contest. Their military resources are developed by the system of universal service. Their navy is manned by the best seamen in the world. Their ships are built of the finest timber, and are commanded by officers of consummate skill and experience. Their country is intersected by navigable rivers, and indented by capacious harbors. Their seaboard is studded with fortresses, and their inland frontier is defended by the hardiest race of men in the world. Their territory is of vast extent, and is capable of producing within itself all the necessaries and luxuries of life. Their people are subject to no conscription, and are not liable to be called away from their homes to fight the battles of their country. They are fighting on their own soil, and in defence of their own hearths and homes. They are the very flower of a nation, who, when they are roused to a sense of danger, will stand forward as one man, and will resist to the last extremity the foreign foe who seeks to violate their soil. Their country is unconquerable. Its inhabitants are invincible. Its navy is irresistible. Its commerce is the nursery of seamen. Its wealth is the sinews of war. Its power is the terror of its enemies. Its glory is the admiration of the world.

Albany Lumber Market.

From the Journal of Commerce, Nov. 14.

The receipts of Lumber for the week, though not large, have enabled buyers to procure a better supply. The supply, except for select grades, is considered close and best shaved and sawed descriptions continued good although the assortments have been large, and the easy stock will be accumulated in two disappearing sales have been active at previous prices.

Shipments have been considerable, as required by the scarcity of vessels—a large number of which are wanted to take off lumber already sold, besides those required for current sales. Freights are improving, and a fleet of vessels would readily be taken up at remunerative rates. The great bulk of the property awaiting shipment is for the East though a few vessels are wanted for Southern ports.

Mechanics' Election in Boston.

The citizens of Boston pay good attention to the present administration of affairs in that city, and taking meetings to discuss, without distinction of party, the nominations of such a person for Mayor and all matters in the interests of the city demand. All of the papers except those of the K. N. order were the movements, and at a meeting of the Democratic Ward and County Committees held on Wednesday evening, it was unanimously voted to make no nominations though the work is not complete which so celebrated a poet as Mr. Longfellow would reject for reputation. As a light and playful effort for the amusement of himself and readers, it will have a proper place with his other works.

The office of the Magnetic Telegraph Company in this city, has been removed to No 5 Brickett's Block—this large and commodious room being divided between Bryant's Express and the Telegraph Company. The office is now very ready of access and in one of the most central locations of the city. The success of this house consequent upon the establishment of the Waterville and this Bangor and Castine lines, has rendered larger accommodations necessary—but there are four separate lines from connecting at this office.

The first paid message over the Bangor and Castine line was received on Friday evening.

Southern Secession.

We cordially endorse the following remarks of the "State of Maine" in the consideration of an article upon the secession troubles in our police department:

"The conduct of Marshal Weaver, however, has nothing to do with the claims of democracy to the first Law. * * * Let every true friend of temperance—whether friendly or opposed to the liquor law—look to it that the appointments (of police) are not made the means of base assaults upon, and persecution of, the friends of temperance, and it seems to us that every lover of fair play will see at once the necessity of a change in the present course of fanatical foolishness."

Arrival of Hawthorne, Emerson, Longfellow, Whittier, Holmes, Lowell, Chapman, Fields, &c.

We all welcome critics who, setting off their wholesome blows upon the Indian history of Longfellow—mainly at the unnatural Indian and unnatural name with which it is burdened—and it must be confessed that the unpronounceable name of the verse is marred thereby. Raising this annoyance, however, (which could hardly be avoided in the plan of the poem) we find a pretty well-sustained and pleasantly written, although the work is not one upon which so celebrated a poet as Mr. Longfellow would rest for reputation. As a light and playful effort for the amusement of himself and readers, it will have a proper place with his other works.

Albany Lumber Market.

From the Journal of Commerce, Nov. 14.

The receipts of Lumber for the week, though not large, have enabled buyers to procure a better supply. The supply, except for select grades, is considered close and best shaved and sawed descriptions continued good although the assortments have been large, and the easy stock will be accumulated in two disappearing sales have been active at previous prices.

Shipments have been considerable, as required by the scarcity of vessels—a large number of which are wanted to take off lumber already sold, besides those required for current sales. Freights are improving, and a fleet of vessels would readily be taken up at remunerative rates. The great bulk of the property awaiting shipment is for the East though a few vessels are wanted for Southern ports.

Mechanics' Election in Boston.

The citizens of Boston pay good attention to the present administration of affairs in that city, and taking meetings to discuss, without distinction of party, the nominations of such a person for Mayor and all matters in the interests of the city demand. All of the papers except those of the K. N. order were the movements, and at a meeting of the Democratic Ward and County Committees held on Wednesday evening, it was unanimously voted to make no nominations though the work is not complete which so celebrated a poet as Mr. Longfellow would reject

TELEGRAPHIC

TO THE DAILY WHIG AND COURIER

The Trouble With Great Britain.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 17.

The Union of this morning, says despatches by the Pacific contain previous assurances that there is nothing whatever in the diplomatic relations between Great Britain and this country that need awaken a moment's solicitude.

The Central American question is still a subject of earnest discussion, and very serious differences of opinion exist on some points, but these differences are matters now belonging to negotiations.

Yellow Fever.

NEW YORK, 17th.

The telegraphic dispatches from Baltimore, reporting that the yellow fever had again broken out in Portsmouth, is altogether erroneous. There is no yellow fever either in Portsmouth or Norfolk, at this present time.

Various Matters.

The ship Margaret Evans, 54 days from Buenos Ayres, consigned to W. W. Delemater & Co, with cargo of hides, hair, wool, etc., went ashore at 10 o'clock last night, at New Inlet, Long Island. She lays on the outer bar, about a mile from shore, and with assistance will probably come off to-night. A steamer with cables and anchors has been sent to her assistance this morning.

Nicholas Lucciloni, who was given up to the French government, under the extradition treaty, was shipped this noon, in steamer for Europe, in charge of deputy marshal D. Angelo.

There is considerable activity at the Brooklyn Navy Yard, now. It is rumored that the Secretary of the Navy has given orders for the immediate equipment of sloop-of-war Falmouth. Her destination will probably be the West Indies. Rumors are also about that a new and finished frigate is to be got ready for sea. The U. S. frigate Potomac, the flag-ship of the Home Squadron, has been fitting for sea for past two weeks. Her stores are nearly all on board, and she will probably haul into the river to-day, and take her powder on board. It is said she will sail direct for the W. Indies next Tuesday.

Suit of Page, Bacon & Co.

ST. LOUIS, 17th.

The suit of Page, Bacon & Co., against the city and county of St. Louis, for damages arising out of the injunction case, was submitted in court to-day. The court gave damages in favor of $53,727. The defendants appealed.

Fire and Loss of Life.

BALTIMORE, 17th.

The china store of James T. Dowell at Alexandria, D. C., was burned last night. During the fire, the walls fell burying a number of persons in the ruins. Five bodies have been taken out; five others have been rescued, one has since died. The other persons are supposed to be under the ruins. Loss of property $15,000.

New Orleans Mails.

New Orleans papers of Saturday and Sunday of last week, are to hand. The mail communication between Montgomery and Mobile, is still suspended. A portion of the N. Orleans mails have been despatched to New York by Postmaster Crawford.

Election Riots at New Orleans.

Accounts are received of bloody and fatal riots at New Orleans during the late election.

In the 18th precinct, Maj Henry Blaise, one of the officers of a German military company, struck an 'American,' whereupon half a dozen revolvers were drawn upon him, and 18 or 20 balls aimed at him as he turned to run. Three of them took effect upon him—one in the thigh, another in the foot, and a third in his breast. Soon after, several fights occurred, and among others, Ed White, a city contractor, was badly beaten.

At the 23d precinct, a Frenchman named Antoine Fuller, was stabbed in the abdomen, and died before he could be carried to the hospital. At midnight, a crowd forced its way into the voting room in this precinct, and demolished the ballot-boxes and the ballots.

In the 20th, Dr Therrer, a druggist, was fatally wounded by a pistol-shot. It is said that he went to the polls with his naturalization papers in one hand and a pistol in the other, and that, being opposed by an American, he fired and wounded him, and the American returned the fire.

Several shots were fired at James Boylan, and a German was wounded in the face.

In the 9th precinct, a party of men broke in, and destroyed the ballot-box and its contents.

Some wilful mischief in Salem has suspended a loaf of bread and a couple of red herrings along side of the Gardner and Benedict flag, thereby intimating the direction in which the knaves and noses are to be looked for this year.

SOMETHING NEW!

MISS J. S. CHADWICK,

AGENT for Madame Briggs, the celebrated Parisian Dress Cutter, has recently located in the Augusta House, at Hallowell, where she will teach her simple and scientific method. Patented according to Act of Congress, 1855.

This is the only perfect and reliable system taught in the United States, and is worthy the attention of every lady. Ladies out of the city can receive instruction and are all alike highly pleased and gratified with it. Ladies quite unacquainted with the use of the tape line can learn in the short space of two or three hours to fit themselves or others in the utmost ease and accuracy.

Those wishing to learn in the evening should give previous notice. She will leave from 9 to 12 A. M., and from 2 to 6 P. M.

For particulars see handbills.

All are kindly invited to call and see, free of charge. Terms reasonable.

"Heaven helps those who help themselves."

Godey, do you wish to learn the Dressmaking Business? Instead of giving three months close application, and hard labor, come to me and I will teach you the three shortest, (provided you already know how to sew.

Mothers, give your daughters useful knowledge as you may be rich to-day and poor to-morrow.

Dress Cutting taught in two hours by the perfect rule. Come and see.

J. S. CHADWICK,
Agent for Madame Briggs, the celebrated Parisian Dress Cutter, author of the System adopted according to Act of Congress, 1855.
